Being in love by sustainability, diversity and social innovation but I always had a crush on technology and special ways to implement ideas. I've worked as Social Engineer, and then I decided to create my own Sustainability Consultant firm, being self-taught myself most of time I developed, front-end web, leadership, management, creative thinking, and fast problem-solving skills. I'm now a full stack developer, and it has been quite a ride and I found a new passion in software programming.
